Winemaker Notes

Reserva Cabernet Sauvignon is hand-harvested from select estate vineyards: developed with extensive focus on vineyard management, this wine stands out for its aromatic intensity and complex style.

Red with purple highlights. Full-bodied and balanced. Stands out for its sensual acidity and juiciness. Long, precise and pleasant finish. Aromatically complex, this Cabernet delivers fruity and spicy aromas such as rose hip, liqueur cherries and thyme. Reveals a toasted background elegantly merged with a subtle resin note.

Pair with slow cooked lamb with spicy sauce and fresh salad or mashed potatoes.

Critical Acclaim

JS 91

James Suckling

Very attractive currant and berry character with hints of flowers. Medium to full body, round tannins and juicy finish.

Terrazas de los Andes

At the end of the 1950s, the famous French Champagne house, Moët & Chandon, realized there was an enormous potential for growth in South America. They sent their wine analyst, Renaud Poirier, to study the possibility of expansion. Monsieur Poirier finally proved that Luján de Cuyo, a region within the province of Mendoza, was the best place for the birth of fine wines. In 1960, Chandon Argentina was established, the first subsidiary of Moët & Chandon outside France.

To make the Terrazas de los Andes wines, Chandon Argentina took the initiative to restore this building, located in the heart of Perdriel and at the foot of the imposing Cordón del Plata (a section of the Andes Mountain Range).

In the past, Chandon Argentina made only sparkling and generic still wines, however at the beginning of the '90s fueled by a political system more orientated towards an international market, a varietal wines project was born, to which Terrazas has now become the reality. Situated in Perdriel there is an old Spanish style winery that was used by Pedro Domecq to create his brandy. Renaud Poirier asked Domecq if he could use his equipment to make the first experimental vintages, between 1957 and 1959. Thirty years later Terrazas de los Andes was born, a tributary of Chandon Argentina dedicated exclusively to the production of varietal wines.
